Albyn School

Head of Faculty for English

Our English curriculum aims to foster a lifelong love of literature and language. Through the study of classic and contemporary texts, pupils sharpen their critical thinking, creativity, and communication skills. Whether analysing a play or crafting persuasive essays, we empower learners to express themselves with clarity, confidence, and imagination both in the classroom and beyond.

Outside of the day-to-day work of the classroom our pupils are able to experience talks and workshops from best-selling authors as well as trips to the theatre to see plays brought to life. Personal reading is encouraged through close links with the school library, reading programmes and extra-curricular book groups, as well as annual participation in the Grampian Children's Book Award.

Through co-curricular clubs, a variety of opportunities mean interested pupils can develop their poetry or creative writing skills or hone their skills in debating, for example.

The Head of Faculty will be a member of the Middle Management Team and will play a key role in shaping the academic life of the school.

About Albyn School

Founded in 1867, Albyn School ('Albyn') is one of Scotland's leading independent schools, offering an exceptional education to pupils from nursery through to sixth year. Located in the heart of Aberdeen, we combine academic excellence with a vibrant co-curricular offering, a strong sense of community, and a forward-thinking approach to learning and development.

Albyn was founded on a pioneering belief in empowerment - enabling young women to attend university and access opportunities that had long been denied to them. That same principle of empowerment still defines us today. As a modern co-ed school, we believe in equipping every pupil to pursue their own path, while supporting others to do the same. This is why our school values centre on developing self-awareness, ambition, and an outward-looking mindset, so that Albyn pupils not only thrive, but contribute meaningfully to the world around them.

Our Purpose: To be Aberdeen's leading community of lifelong learners and an enduring force for good.

Our Mission: We cultivate thoughtful learners and compassionate individuals, empowering each pupil to thrive academically and personally. Inspired by our founding belief in opportunity, we champion innovation in learning, meaningful partnerships, and a deep commitment to wellbeing - so every pupil is equipped to shape a better future.

Our Vision: To lead the future of education by inspiring curiosity, building character, and expanding opportunity - just as we did when we were founded. We aim to shape a generation of changemakers ready to contribute confidently in a complex, evolving world.
